UDGHOSH

THE SOUND OF RIGHTEOUSNESS

VOLUME-1

2025-26

Mentor's Note

At Indus Business Academy, learning extends far beyond textbooks, and this edition of Udgosh reflects that spirit of holistic growth. As Mentor of the Newsletter Committee, I am delighted to present this volume, which captures the essence of campus life, intellectual engagement, and student-driven achievements.

This edition brings together enriching experiences such as Internship Diaries, thoughtful Book Reviews, and reflective narratives in Beyond the Books. It also highlights the vibrant beginnings of our new batch through Admission Experiences, Orientation highlights, and the memorable cultural immersion of Bangalore Darshan. A key academic milestone featured is the international symposium “World One Sanatan: Yogic Leadership Learnings from Ancient Indian Wisdom,” showcasing the integration of ancient wisdom with modern leadership thought.

This newsletter has been thoughtfully curated by the Newsletter Committee, & Content Creators—whose dedication and enthusiasm made this edition possible. As we share this volume as a meaningful parting note, it stands as a testament to collaboration, creativity, and continuous learning within the IBA community.

I encourage everyone to read, reflect, and remain engaged with this journey of growth and celebration.

Warm regards,
Prof. Sathyan Subbiah

Welcome to Udghosh Volume 1, a lively canvas capturing the heartbeat of our IBA journey! From the thrill of admission days to the fun of orientation, from exploring Bangalore to navigating internships, this edition brings together experiences that shaped our growth. Every story bursts with energy, learning, and creativity. Udghosh reflects who we are—curious minds, supportive peers, and a community that celebrates progress. As you flip through these pages, may you feel inspired to embrace new challenges, create meaningful connections, and continue writing your own unique story. Here's to our beginnings and the bright road ahead!

ARYAN ANAND JAIN

With immense joy, we present Udghosh Volume 1—a beautiful blend of memories, reflections, and shared dreams. This edition captures the essence of our journey: the first hellos, the quiet moments of learning, the excitement of new experiences, and the warmth of friendships that shaped our days. Each contribution is a heartfelt piece of our collective story, preserving the nostalgia and hope that define our time here. As you immerse yourself in these pages, may Udghosh remind you of how far we've come and inspire you to carry forward the spirit of curiosity, courage, and togetherness.

PARTING NOTES

1

Ms. AYUSHI DUTTA
Core Member- NLC 24-25

It feels surreal to be writing this. Two years at IBA have fundamentally shifted my perspective, not just on business, but on life itself. I came in a little lost, but I'm leaving with a clarity and a network of friends who feel like family. The late-night project submissions, the high-stakes presentations, even the mess hall banter—all feel etched in my heart. Thank you, IBA, for the tears, the laughter, and most importantly, the courage to step into the professional world. I'll carry this green campus with me.

2

Ms. V. BHAVANI
Core Member- NLC 24-25

IBA wasn't just a college; it was where I found my people. I'll forever cherish the memory of scrambling for notes before exams, and then celebrating our little victories over a shared cup of ice-cream. It's a bittersweet moment, realizing we won't be seeing each other every day. Thank you to my professors for the mentorship that went beyond the syllabus, and to my batchmates—you made every tough day manageable. Hold onto the 'IBA spirit,' everyone. Let's make our mark, but never forget where we started.

3

Mr. DINESH PATHIVADA
Treasurer- NLC 24-25

IBA wasn't just a college; it was where I found my people. I'll forever cherish the memory of scrambling for notes before exams, and then celebrating our little victories over a shared cup of ice-cream. It's a bittersweet moment, realizing we won't be seeing each other every day. Thank you to my professors for the mentorship that went beyond the syllabus, and to my batchmates—you made every tough day manageable. Hold onto the 'IBA spirit,' everyone. Let's make our mark, but never forget where we started.

4

Mr. HARSHVARDHAN SRIVASATAV
Secretary- NLC 24-25

The heart of my IBA experience was always that central green lawn. It witnessed our deepest discussions, our silly midnight dares, and our collective anxieties before placements. Every corner holds a memory, every tree a whispered secret. Leaving this place feels like closing a beloved chapter. To all my friends: keep in touch. To the campus: thank you for being the quiet backdrop to the most formative years of my young adult life.

Ms. SUDESHNA CHATTERJEE

I've learned more outside the classroom walls than I ever thought possible. Sharing a single coffee during exam week, building a pitch from scratch at 3 AM, learning to genuinely collaborate—these were the true MBA lessons. This isn't just a farewell to a degree; it's a tribute to the maturity and camaraderie we built. I'm a little emotional, but incredibly grateful. May we all find success and happiness.

Mr. SK MOHIBUL

This note is dedicated entirely to my professors. You were not just instructors; you were guides, pushing me when I doubted myself and believing in my potential even when my presentations were shaky. Your faith was the bedrock of my confidence. I am leaving IBA ready, equipped not just with knowledge, but with the ethical compass you helped us calibrate. Thank you for investing so much of yourselves in our futures.

7

Mr. YOGENDRA GAUTAM

Goodbye our rooms, our home away from home. I'll miss the laughing banter, the loud music, and the constant flow of life advice from across the hall. Hostel life at IBA was intense, chaotic, and the most fun I've ever had. We became friends bound by shared deadlines and dreams. Packing up our bag was hard, but the memories of our batch will be my most treasured baggage.

8

Mr. BISWAJEET BISWAS

IBA was a crucible of self-discovery. I entered with a vague idea of my path, but the rigorous schedule, the diverse peer group, and the opportunities here forced me to confront my own ambitions and limitations. I finally figured out who I want to be, professionally and personally. I am leaving this campus with purpose and a lump in my throat. We did it, batch 2023-25. Now let's shine!

9

Ms. RUPA KUMARI

I'll miss the quiet evenings in the balcony of our hostel, reflecting on the day's chaos. Those moments of calm were essential for grounding us. IBA taught me the balance between the hustle and the need for reflection. I'm proud of the professional I've become, but I cherish the friendships more. Thank you, friends, for sharing these quiet, profound two years with me.

10

Mr. MUKESH SINGH

We came from different states, different backgrounds, but the pressure cooker of the PGDM program welded us into a family. We know each other's strengths, fears, and coffee preferences. As we step out into our careers, I know this bond is unbreakable. We are not just alumni; we are a support system for life. Thank you, IBA, for bringing us all together and shaping our destinies.

11

Ms. KILLI LIKHITHA

I will always remember the unexpected kindness I found here. From a senior helping me with my first term paper to a classmate sharing their last slice of cake during a late-night study session—these small gestures defined my experience. IBA taught me that success is built on collaboration and genuine human connection, not just competition. As I walk out that gate for the last time, I carry not just a degree, but a heart full of gratitude for this compassionate batch.

12

Ms. HARSHITA GOYAL

It's hard to say goodbye because I feel like I am leaving a part of myself within these walls. Two years ago, I was an amateur; now, I am confident, capable, and ready. But that transition wasn't easy. Thank you to the IBA community for providing a safe space to fail, learn, and grow. I will miss the routine, the beautiful campus, and most of all, the shared dreams we built together. Farewell, and may our paths cross again soon.

INTERNSHIP DIARY

VAIBHAV SHARMA

I completed my internship at Gynow Media, an influencer marketing agency based in Gurugram. During my internship, I handled two important clients: Flipkart and JadeBlue Lifestyle. For Flipkart, I executed two major influencer campaigns—the Rakhi campaign and a Home Furnishing campaign. For JadeBlue, I executed a store-opening influencer campaign across Gujarat and other cities such as Jaipur, Indore and Pune.

I was also part of the Brand Relationship Team (BRT), where I handled 80+ restaurant accounts and executed 150+ influencer activations. Throughout my internship, I gained hands-on experience in key account management, client servicing, influencer negotiations, and developed a strong understanding of how the influencer marketing ecosystem works.

LIPSY YADAV

My internship at Wogle Tech as a Business Development Intern was a valuable learning experience that helped me understand the strategic side of business growth. I got the chance to explore new markets, connect with potential clients, and share ideas that could support the company's growth. Each task taught me something new: how to communicate better, think creatively, and understand what customers really need. The team guided me at every step, which boosted my confidence and improved my decision-making skills. Overall, this internship helped me grow both personally and professionally, giving me a clearer understanding of how businesses work in the real world.

ASFIA SAJJID

I completed my six-month internship at Exide Industries Limited, Bariatu Road, Ranchi, in the Marketing and Analytics (Mobility) division. During this internship, I learned about different Mobility batteries, warranty terms, dealer networks, and sales operations. I analyzed dealer purchase data, identified non-active dealers, and assisted the team in sales follow-ups and pending payment calls. I worked on Power BI to create basic dashboards and attended meetings with the Regional Sales Manager, where I understood sales targets and distribution strategies. This internship improved my communication, analytical skills, and overall industry knowledge.

SHUBHAM PANDEY

I had the opportunity to work at Nosh Robotics as a Business Development Intern, directly under the guidance of the founder. During my tenure, I contributed to strengthening the company's sales and outreach processes. One of my key achievements was the successful implementation of Zoho CRM, which helped streamline lead management, improve tracking, and enhance overall operational efficiency. I also played an active role in offline society marketing, where I executed ground-level promotional activities to increase product visibility and consumer engagement. Additionally, I contributed to Adonmo digital screen marketing, ensuring targeted brand exposure across key locations. My experience at Nosh Robotics helped me develop strong business development, marketing, and executional skills.

KHUSHEE

During my internship at TunelGround, I gained hands-on exposure to marketing strategy, content planning, and audience engagement in a fast-paced, dynamic startup environment. I worked closely with cross-functional teams in a startup environment, which helped me sharpen my communication, creativity, and problem-solving skills while understanding how real-world digital marketing campaigns are built and executed. It was an amazing experience and gained hands-on experience in a startup environment.

6

ANUSHKA MILIND ULAPE

Some journeys change you quietly, and my internship was one of them.

My six-month experience in Talent Acquisition opened a door to the world where conversations turn into careers and opportunities begin with a single call. Every day felt like a new story—discovering talent, coordinating interviews, and witnessing how the right connection can spark someone's professional path. I learned the rhythm of recruitment, strengthened my communication, and built confidence in handling responsibilities that once felt daunting. Beyond skills, it taught me empathy, clarity, and purpose. This internship didn't just shape my understanding of HR—it shaped the professional I'm becoming.

SUMITRO MALLICK

My internship with the Talent Acquisition team at Axis Bank was an enriching and transformative experience. I actively contributed to the end-to-end recruitment cycle, including talent sourcing, resume screening, interview coordination, and onboarding support. Collaborating with experienced HR professionals helped me understand the nuances of candidate assessment, employer branding, and stakeholder management. I also worked on recruitment dashboards and gained hands-on experience with HR systems, enhancing my analytical and organizational skills. The dynamic work environment strengthened my communication, attention to detail, and decision-making abilities. Overall, this internship deepened my understanding of modern hiring practices and reinforced my passion for a career in Human Resources.

8

JYOTIRMAYI MAHARANA

My internship at Digit Insurance has been an enriching and transformative experience. Working closely on recruitment for voice-process teams such as Customer Happiness, Tele-Sales, and the Partner Helpdesk offered me valuable insights into high-volume hiring and employer branding. I successfully contributed to closing positions across Bangalore, Pune, and Indore while also supporting team-engagement activities and event planning.

This exposure strengthened my understanding of HR operations and reaffirmed my passion for the field. The experience has equipped me with greater confidence and clarity as I continue shaping my career in Human Resources.

ARYAN JAIN

From crafting viral memes & Contents for brands to closing enterprise giants like Belgium Waffle and PaperBoat for Project Management Tool, my 27-week saga at Affable Tech wasn't just an internship it was a masterclass in hustle. I poured my soul into creating 40+ SEO-dominating blogs and humanizing B2B tech through storytelling and reels.

Meeting wasn't just Connecting; it was building bridges across global markets like Dubai and the US. I learned that true branding isn't about logos; it's about the relentless pursuit of connection. I didn't just learn digital marketing & Tech Consulting; I lived it, proving that with grit and creativity, you can turn a vision into a movement.

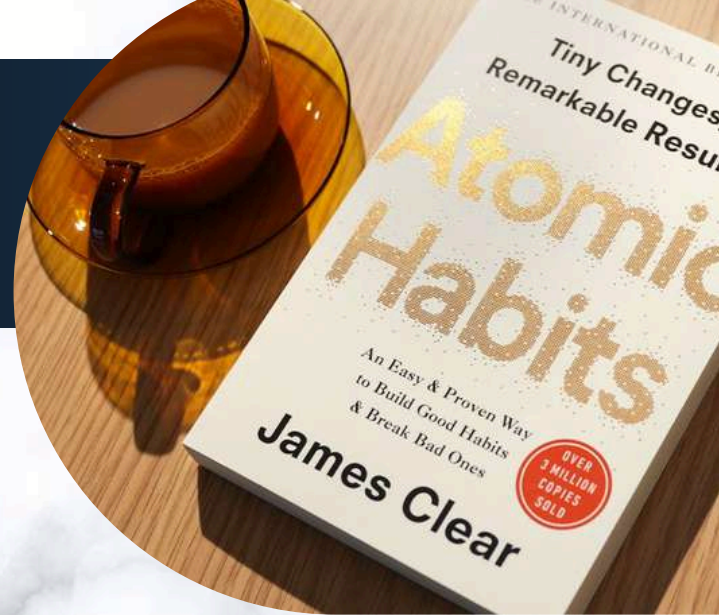

BOOK REVIEW

Batch- 2025-27

Atomic Habits by James Clear

Atomic Habits by James Clear is a practical and easy-to-read book that explains how small daily habits can lead to meaningful and lasting change. Instead of focusing on dramatic transformations or quick success, the author emphasizes the importance of making small improvements every day. Clear believes that success comes from consistent effort, where even tiny actions, when repeated regularly, can produce remarkable results over time.

One key idea in the book is that habits shape our lives more than we realize. James Clear explains that our daily routines, such as how we start our day, manage time, and make choices, ultimately determine our outcomes. He compares habits to compound interest, showing how small actions may seem insignificant at first but grow in impact over time. This idea makes building habits feel achievable and encourages readers to start small rather than aim for unrealistic goals.

The book also stresses the importance of building systems instead of only setting goals. While goals provide direction, Clear argues that systems create real progress. For example, wanting to be fit is a goal, but following a regular exercise and healthy eating routine is a system that produces results. Focusing on systems helps people stay consistent and avoids frustration when progress seems slow.

Another powerful concept discussed in Atomic Habits is identity-based habits. Clear explains that lasting change occurs when habits become part of who we are. When habits match our identity, they become easier to maintain.

Overall, Atomic Habits is motivating, realistic, and highly practical. It shows that small, consistent actions can create positive and sustainable improvements in everyday life.

BEYOND THE BOOK

Picture 1

“Across raging skies and burning earth, Hanuman Ji races with the mountain of life, guided only by love for His Lord.”

His abstract portrayal of Hanuman carrying the Sanjeevani reminds us that true strength is never just physical—it is the courage to rise when hope is fading. The chaos of red below and the calm blues above reflect life’s duality, while Hanuman’s silhouette becomes a bridge between despair and possibility. The painting whispers a timeless truth from the Ramayana: when the world is wounded, it is devotion, not power, that moves mountains.

“Half-hidden in her veil, she carries a universe of grace in her quiet gaze.”

This artwork captures the quiet power of femininity. With eyes closed and framed by intricate patterns, the figure radiates grace, calm, and inner strength. The delicate detailing turns silence into beauty, inviting the viewer to pause and feel the serenity within.

ALIVIA SAHA
Batch 25-27

Picture 1

Fractured Quietness

Created entirely using a palette knife, this artwork allows texture to speak where words fail. The broken, unblended strokes mirror a mind in quiet unrest thoughts layered, emotions unresolved. Color replaces clarity, revealing vulnerability beneath strength. Rather than striving for realism, the painting lingers in emotional dissonance, holding space for what remains unfinished, unheard, and deeply human.

Picture 2

Where the Night Softens

Set at the fragile edge of dawn, this artwork exists in the pause between darkness and light. A solitary deer stands within drifting mist, its silhouette touched gently by fading night. Though delicate in form, the figure holds a quiet strength rooted, aware, and unyielding in stillness. The moment carries a muted sorrow, soft and lingering, where vulnerability does not weaken but endures. Through subdued tones and fragile light, the painting reflects solitude, resilience, and the silent power of simply remaining.

World One Sanatan: Yogic Leadership Learnings from Ancient Indian Wisdom

The online symposium organized on 21st June, 2025 explored the relevance of ancient Indian yogic wisdom in modern leadership, corporate culture, and personal well-being. Distinguished speakers included Ambassador H.E. Namrata Kumar (Ambassador of India to Latvia), Prof. Dr. Sachin Chaturvedi (Vice Chancellor, Nalanda University), Shri Stephen Knapp (Padma Shri Awardee & Founder, Vedic Friends Association, USA), Prof. Dr. Wolfgang Amann (HEC Paris, Doha; Co-author – Corporate Yoga), Prof. Dr. Shiv Tripathi (Dean, Berlin School of Business & Innovation; Author – Corporate Yoga), and Dr. Manish Jain (Founder & Chairman, IBA Bangalore). The session was moderated by Prof. Dr. Anastasia Kirtisi, Founder of the Infinite Wisdom for All initiative.

Discussions emphasized devotion-based leadership, encouraging ethical, purpose-driven corporate culture rooted in compassion and self-awareness. Dr. Tripathi highlighted managing uncertainty through Dharmic Karma, reinforcing righteous action as essential for meaningful outcomes. Practical application of yogic principles such as mindfulness, meditation breaks, and rejuvenation were advocated to enhance clarity, productivity, and emotional balance in workplaces.

Speakers also stressed institutionalizing peace, ethical governance, transparent communication, and nurturing leaders who embody values and responsibility. Ambassador Namrata emphasized compassionate leadership at individual, organizational, and national levels, aligned with the principle of Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam.

The symposium affirmed that yogic wisdom offers transformative leadership guidance, advocating purposeful meditation, lifelong learning, ethical conduct, and holistic well-being for a compassionate and productive world.

A SEAMLESS JOURNEY THROUGHOUT ADMISSION EXPERIENCE

"An admission may take minutes but it can change your entire future."

1 HOW I BECAME A PART OF IBA

My admission experience at Indus Business Academy was highly positive and well-organized. Every stage of the process was smooth, supported by clear communication from the admission team. The faculty and interview panel were encouraging, making the interaction confident and comfortable. The experience gave me a strong sense of belonging and assured me that IBA is the right place to begin my management journey.

ORIENTATION

The Orientation Program for the Indus Business Academy (IBA), Bangalore, Batch of 2025–27, was held on July 1, 2025, in the presence of faculty, staff, students, and parents. Hosted by Khushee Singh, Gahana Shanbag, Omanshu Rathore, and Vaibhav Raikwar, the event warmly welcomed the new batch as they began their academic journey. The program introduced IBA's history, achievements, and its distinctive culture focused on continuous learning and personal growth.

The ceremony commenced with a formal welcome by Dr. Subhash Sharma, Chief Mentor, who invited the Chief Guest, Dr. Kuldeep Dagar, Joint Secretary, Association of Indian Universities (AIU), to light the knowledge lamp—a symbolic beginning of the students' educational journey. A soulful performance of Saraswati Vandana by Ms. Gahana Shanbag and Jyotirmayi Maharana added to the significance of the occasion.

Dr. Manish Jain, Founder and Chairman of IBA, addressed the gathering with an inspiring speech, sharing his vision and motivating students to strive for excellence. Dr. Subhash Sharma encouraged students to embrace creativity in their management journey, while Dr. Kuldeep Dagar graced the event and shared leadership lessons from his career, offering valuable insights on discipline, perseverance, and inspiration for the path ahead.

Dr. Easwar Krishnan Iyer, Director, introduced the esteemed faculty and staff, acknowledging their vital contributions to students' academic development. The new students also introduced themselves, fostering a sense of community and camaraderie among peers.

The program concluded with a vote of thanks by Dr. Ramesh, followed by the national anthem, leaving the students motivated and prepared for the exciting opportunities and challenges awaiting them at IBA.

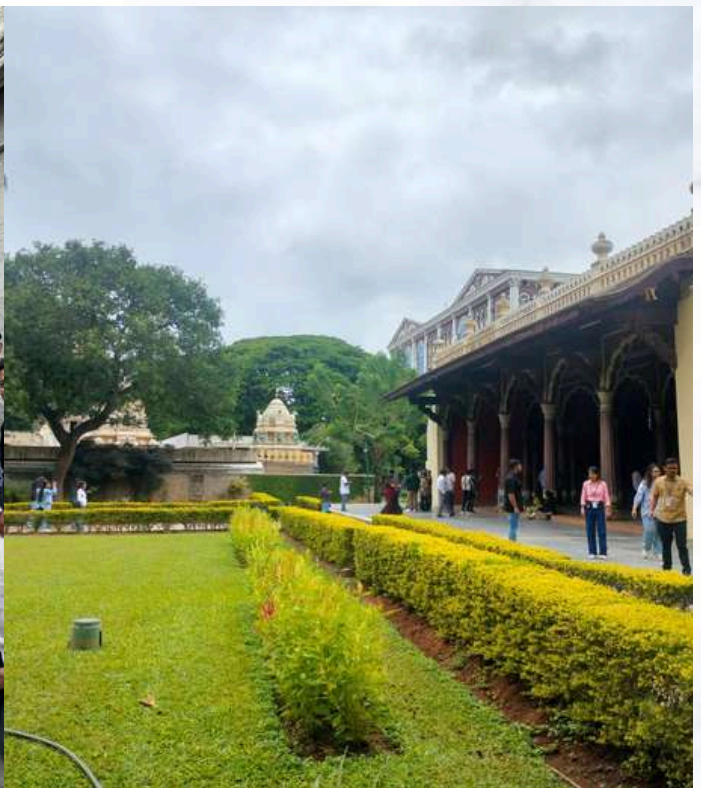

BANGALORE DARSHAN

On 6th July 2025, our college organized a travel event called Bangalore Darshan, where we, the students of IBA, were taken on a guided tour across the city to visit some of the most prominent locations in Bangalore. It was a great way to relieve some stress and take off our minds from the usual hustle and bustle of a typical day at IBA. We were all very ecstatic and excited at the same time when we heard the idea of Bangalore Darshan.

The sun was up and we left at around 8 in the morning. Our first location that we visited was ISKCON Temple, Vaikuntha hill. If I had to sum up the experience in a few words, it would be absolutely divine and peaceful. The peaceful atmosphere seemed to gently settle over us.

After that, we left for The Big Bull Nandi Temple. It is said to be one of the biggest Temple to Nandi in the world. The temple was very crowded but the experience was truly worth it.

Our next stop was the historic Tipu Sultan Palace. It's a small palace but it is definitely of historical importance. The lush gardens in front of the palace were absolutely beautiful. Talking about its history, Hyder Ali commenced its construction in 1781 and it was completed 10 years later in 1791. The experience was truly worthwhile.

Then, we visited The Bangalore Palace and we were all amazed by its marvelous architecture and grandeur. It was truly a sight to behold. All of us came together for a group photo, filled with joy and laughter. That picture captured a moment that will forever echo in our hearts. On our way to different locations, we passed by several iconic landmarks including the world famous M. Chinn swamy stadium, the green heart of Bengaluru which is Cubbon Park and a few more along the way.

After having our lunch, we visited the Visvesvaraya Industrial and Technological Museum. It houses a variety of different exhibits related to science and technology. One thing that most of us loved about the museum were the interactive exhibits. They were so enthralling and our inquisitiveness was through the roof. The experience was so worth it.

During our journey, most of us were involved in dancing and singing and everyone was just having so much fun. We all were living in the moment, forgetting about everything.

Our journey almost came to end with the last stop being the famous MG Road. We were told that we would be dropped off and had to return on our own. Our group of friends visited a variety of different shops and stores and we commuted back to our college by metro and our trip came to an end.

All of us captured some special moments that will stay in our hearts and cameras forever. We were reminded by the fact that we should encapsulate every essence of the moment and to stop overthinking, let go of unnecessary worries and simply live in the present. Altogether, it was a wonderful experience.
